ALL SET FOR CLOSING DAY

Chautauqua Will be Mecca Tomorrow
For Largest Crowd in History,
it is Believed.

FINE PROGRAM IS PREPARED

Kellogg-Haines Singing Party is as Popular With Local Audience
As Last Year.

Tonight.

7:30 Prelude—The Lotus Glee Club.
8:15 Lecture—Dr. E. O. Guerrant.

Sunday, August 10.

2:00 p. m. Sacred Concert—The Lotus Glee Club.
2:45 p. m. Lecture—"The Drama of Job"—Bishop W. A.
Quayle.
4:00 p. m. Lecture—Dr. E. O.
Guerrant.
7:30 p. m. Prelude—The Lotus Glee Club.
8:00 p. m. Lecture—"Napoleon
Bonaparte, the Democrat"—
Bishop W. A. Quayle.
9:00 p. m. Farewell Concert—
The Lotus Glee Club.

The Kellogg-Haines Singing Party
has lost none of its popularity in Rushville, judging from the applause
which greeted the company's appearance in grand concert at the chautauqua
last evening.

The Kellogg-Haines company left today for another engagement and the Lotus glee club, which has been recommended to the talent committee
as the best male organization of singers on the chautauqua platform,
came to remain for the rest of the chautauqua.

The chautauqua management is anticipating the banner crowd of the chautauqua tomorrow. It is believed there is sort of a desire among the patrons of the chautauqua to be present of the closing day of the Chautauqua so as to get one good taste to cling to as memory until chautauqua week rolls around again
next year.

The Sunday program offers many additional attractions which makes it
more attractive than any closing day
at any previous chautauqua. Besides the two lectures by Bishop Quayle, there will be the two preludes
by the Lotus glee club. An innovation on the program will be a farewell concert by the Lotus club club
Sunday evening at nine o'clock following the hour's lecture by Bishop Quayle. It has not been the custom in past years to close with a concert.

The Lotus club arrived this morning ready to begin its engagement of two days. The first appearance of the club was this afternoon when a prelude was given. From the estate placed on the club at its initial appearance, there seems to be little doubt but that the Lotus club will be one of the most popular musical organizations that ever visited here.

Every man in the club is a soloist of marked ability. Carl Morris, the Rush county boy who has won fame
and fortune as a baritone soloist in New York City, recommends highly the Lotus club. He is personally acquainted with the bass and tenor of the club, as they sang in the same quartet with Mr. Morris last winter.

Mr. Glenn, the bass, has a wide reputation as a soloist. He has made many records for the Victor company
and the offerings of this company
for this fall are said to contain many

CARTHAGE MAN NOT GUILTY

Shelbyville Squire Finds For Him in Trespass Case.

Justice Webb Friday afternoon announced his decision in the case against Melvin Seely of Carthage,
charged with trespass by Hardy C.
Fox, of Liberty township with whom he had trouble a few days ago while an attempt was being made to take away from the Fox farm some property claimed by Mrs. Margaret Seely, mother of Melvin, says the Shelby-ville Democrat. The defendant was found not guilty. The case was tried last Wednesday and was taken under advisement by Justice Webb.

BARN NEAR MOSCOW BURNED TO GROUND

Lightning Causes Heavy Loss on Clarence Tevis Farm East of Moscow Early Thursday.

OTHER DAMAGE BY THE STORM

The storm of early yesterday morning did considerable damage in northeastern Shelby county and southwestern Rush county. The storm was very severe here in Rushville, but there was no damage.

A large barn on Clarence Tevis' farm one mile east of Moscow was hit by lightning about two o'clock
yesterday morning and burned to the ground. Mr. Tevis, at the risk of his life, was able to rescue the live stock from the burning building. The barn had recently been filled with new hay, which together with a large quantity of grain and a number of farming implements, were a complete loss to Mr. Tevis.

The barn on the Jacob Sheppie
farm on the Rushville pike six miles northeast of Shelbyville was hit and burned to the ground. Two houses in Shelbyville were hit and other slight damage was done.

HOT WEATHER MAY LAST SEVERAL DAYS

Weather Man Gives No Promise of Relief Although Showers Are Expected Tonight.

MERCURY GOES UP TO 94 TODAY

Little relief is promised by the weather man from the present hot weather although the weather forecast is for showers tonight or tomorrow. The indications pointed to the possibility of a coming hot siege
which may last for several days.
The mercury rose to ninety-four today, the hottest that has been recorded here for several days. The day was eleven to fourteen degrees
warmer than any other day this week and the promise of continued
warm weather does not sound good to the average individual. Reports from as far west as Kansas say that they are experiencing the driest and hottest weather of the entire summer. The heat here today would have been more noticeable had not a slight wind been blowing from the south.

Miss Buelah Staples has resumed
here duties as deputy clerk after a weeks' illness. Her place was filled by her sister, Miss Gladys Staples
during her absence.

NO CHANGES IN TAX FIGURES

Assessments in Rush County Will Stand and Auditor Notified to Make Out Tax Duplicates.

SOME DID NOT FARE SO WELL

Disregard of New Rule Caused Many Reports to be Botched—Board Commended.

The township assessors, the county
assessor and the board of review
have just been complimented, both by the word and the deed of the Board of Tax Commissioners, as set forth in a notification received by Auditor Holden. The notification says the auditor may proceed to make up the tax duplicates, as the State Board has found no need of any change in the taxation figures reported from Rush county.

The fact is a matter of pleasure
to the assessors, and to the board of review, since it places the sanction of the State upon their work. Also,
in definite language, the county's tax
officers are thanked for their careful execution of the State board's advices touching the slightly altered
process of assessment this year.

The policy of assessing all personal property, money and notes included, at full value, and of allowing a discount of twenty-five per cent is the change which caused numerous other Indiana counties to have their figures literally torn to shreds and recast by the State board. Instead of following the new rule fully two-thirds of the counties somehow split
the difference between it and the old procedure, or else disregarded the order entirely. The results were mixtures of figures, which the State board revised, and which, in turn, necessitated a great amount of work for respective county auditors. In the assessment of banks the disregard of the new arrangement showed up perhaps more plainly than anywhere else, many banks being assessed by careless counties at 60 to 65 per cent, instead of at 75, as virtually provided by the later edict. The full report of the State board's action is not received, but it is known that Rush county's fate at the hands
of the board is one of a comparative few.

DARNELLS HOLD ANNUAL REUNION

Second Annual Event at Fair Grounds is Attended by More Than One Hundred Members.

NEW OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

The second annual reunion of the Darnell family, which was held at the fair grounds Thursday, was attended by over a hundred of the family. About twenty-five of the guests were from Scott county, Kentucky and White county, Indiana.
The remaining were from Rush, Fayette and Decatur counties.

At the noon hour a bountiful dinner
was served and enjoyed by everyone.
A group picture was taken and the rest of the afternoon was spent socially. Refreshments of various kinds were served. The following officers for the coming year were elected: John E. Darnell, Chalmers, Indiana, president; Mrs. Vena Johnson, Chalmers, secretary of White
county and Mary Darnell of Milroy,
secretary of Rush county.

I. & C. PURCHASES THE MILL RACE

Interurban Company Takes Over
Property Which it Had Leased
to Furnish Water.

NOT KNOWN WHAT FUTURE IS

Owen L. Carr, Chief Owner, Practically Said he Abandoned It Because it was Not Profitable.

The deal was closed today where the Indianapolis Traction company
became the sole owner of the mill
race which was built many years ago
to operate the old Carmichael mill,
now owned by J. C. Bickhart.

Charles L. Henry president of the I.
& C., came down this morning at 11:42 o'clock from Indianapolis and the deal was promptly closed up.
What the future of the mill race may be, Mr. Henry, could not say.

This afternoon Mr. Henry, Will M.
Frazee, claim agent; Claude Cam-bern, counsel for the I. & C. and Len-roy Cox, head of the track department, drove to the mill dam in a carriage to inspect the newly acquired property.

"The conditions under which the mill race was being used by us were very unsatisfactory," Mr. Henry said today. "We bought the property clean because the service was not satisfactory. Just what will be done with the race is not known at this time. Since we just acquired the property we can not tell what it needs, nor can we tell what course
we will pursue. We can't tell how it will be developed until we examine it carefully."

When asked if the race would be closed up and arrangements made
to carry the water from the power house underground, Mr. Henry replied in the negative. He said that it would be kept as a power main-tainer.

Ever since the power house has been built, the race water has been used to cool the machinery. The right for the I. & C. to use the water
was under the lease which the inter-
urban company had with the owners,
a stock company in which Owen L.
Carr was the principal owner.

Mr. Carr is so many words said
this afternoon that he had abandoned the mill race it was not a profitable investment under the terms of the lease which the I. & C. held. This was in reply to a question as to what the consideration for the property was.

Mr. Carr was really the owner of the mill race although there were a few minor stockholders for corporation purposes. He said that the dam was broken and that there were other repairs which were needed.

ALREADY BUYING TALENT

Chautauqua Committee Works on Next Year's Program.

The chautauqua talent committee
is already at work on next year's program. Two Lyceum agencies have been represented here the last few days and another was expected today. Two musical numbers of superior quality have already been purchased and it was expected some more talent would be contracted for today. This is vastly different from the methods the committee had to employ a few years ago. Then the finances of the chautauqua were very uncertain and the committee had to act slowly. Now it is enabled to get the choice of the talent before it is all picked over.

IS RUN OVER BY A WAGON

"Sandy" Favors Suffers Broken Hip
and Shoulder.

"Sandy" Favors, a well-known resident of St. Paul, was run over Friday by a wagon and probably fatally injured. The wagon contained a quantity of beer besides more than two tons of ice. Favors's shoulder blade and hip bone were broken and he was otherwise terribly crushed.
The accident occurred as the wagon
was going down a hill near a pleasure camp north of St. Paul. Favors was driving the wagon.

SISTER OF JUDGE MEGEE EXPIRED

Mrs. Martha Payne Passed Away at Home of Daughter Near Arlington Late Yesterday.

FUNERAL SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. Martha Payne, 64 years old, wife of Alvan Payne and a sister of Judge John D. Megee and Mrs.
Taylor Lakin of this city, died last evening at six o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Noah Leisure, northeast of Arlington. Mrs. Payne had been in ill health for some time
suffering from a disease of the liver and death was expected. She is survived by her husband and three children, Mrs. Leisure, Mrs. Rush Lee and Russell Payne and also the brother and sister. The funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at one-thirty o'clock in the Christian church at Arlington. Burial will take place in the Rushville East Hill cemetery.

DIRECTORY OF CHURCH ISSUED

Besides Names of Members Book
Gives Brief History and Report
on Financial Condition

CARTOON BY REV. MEACHAM

A directory of the First Presbyterian church covering from March 31, 1912 to April 1, 1913, has just been issued. Besides giving the names and addresses of the members, the book contains a brief history of the church and reports on the financial condition of the different departments.

The First Presbyterian church was first organized January 22, 1825. For the first few years the church had no
regular preacher, although the name of William Sickles is given as the first minister. Thomas Barr was the first minister to be installed. The oldest member of the church is Mrs.
Sarah Arnold, who was ninety years old last June. Mrs. Arnold organized the first missionary society in this city. A page in the directory is dedicated to Mrs. Arnold.

On one page is to be found a cartoon drawn by the Rev. J. B. Meacham. The cartoon shows a team of horses pulling a wagon on which is loaded the First Presbyterian church.
Below is the inscription, "The Secret
of Success," and the following: "No Lines! No Whip! No Driver! It's not the wheels nor the machinery that makes a church go. It's pulling together—hard work—horse sense
and plenty of religion."

TELLS A STORY OF PRISON LIFE

Maude Ballington Booth Hold Immense Chautauqua Audience
Spellbound With Thrilling Incidents.

WHAT SHE ACCOMPLISHED

Demands a Fair Chance For Every Released Convict and Right to Make Good.

Maude Ballington Booth, who came to be known among convicts and eventually elsewhere as the "little mother" of the prison, held an audience of sixteen hundred people
spellbound at the chautauqua yesterday afternoon as she related experiences from her life and told of her life's work.

"When I first entered the prison
seventeen years ago," said the lecturer, "I for the first time realized
the horror of it. I found then that the convicts were not treated as well as we treat our animals. We give them good food and exercise. In many prison cells has echoed same call that made Lazarus rise up. Yet
the laws of our fair state accords
every man a fair show."

Mrs. Booth described the cells at Sing Sing when she first entered the work. They were dark, small, damp with no ventilation and no windows
where a ray of sunshine could enter.
In the old days, she said, the convicts walked in lock-step and wore stripes. Once they walked that way, she declared, they never walk like a man again.

"Dark dungeons?" she asked "Yes,
not in Spain but in prisons in the United States. Tortures? Yes. I have known men to be hung up by their arms until their wrists were broken. Beaten? Yes, until their bodies were black and blue. Thank God, these are things of the past.
And I might say in this connection that one of the most advanced states
in prison reform is yours."

"When a man breaks the law, it best for society that he should be sent where he is held in self restraint.
He must pay the penalty for violating the law. When he enters the prison every officer from the warden
down should ask: 'What can we do to help him? What can we do with him when the church and state has failed?'"

"Instead of branding him a mur-derer, a burglar or whatever he may be, the best influences should be brought to bear on him. When he comes forth the world should learn the great Christian spirit and forget the past. He should be given a fair chance, an opportunity to work and begin life over again. A large percent, if they have that chance, will
make good."

Mrs. Booth explained the Volunteer Prisoners League, of which there are now seventy-eight thousand members. It was formed because of the many calls for aid from released convicts. The prisoners who are members wear a distinctive button
and pledge themselves to break no prison rule. The league stimulates men to help themselves and prepare for the future, she said.

Mrs. Booth told of the open homes
for released convicts, call deHope
Hall, which she had established in New York, Illinois, Ohio, and three or four other states. She said they were made as much like mother's home as possible. No man pays anything while he remains in one.
He doesn't remain in idleness, but works on the farms in connection with them. He remains until employment is found for him.

Mrs. Booth said that twenty

HEALTH CONGRESS AT BUFFALO WILL BE AN IMPORTANT EVENT

Will Discuss Pernicious Conditions In Public Schools of the United States.

THE most important health conference that has ever been held in the United States will take place in Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 25-30, when the fourth international congress on school hygiene meets in that city. It is the most important conference, because educational experts have come to realize that the most potent factor in dealing with the health problems of any nation is the education of the people to know and understand the laws and influences which govern individual and public health.

Many important public health and hygiene conferences have been held in this country and abroad, but heretofore all these have dealt principally with adult or infant life. When the individual has reached adult life he has attained an age when health education has to be forced upon him, while in infant life the individual is too young to receive a lasting impression. It is with the school children, then, that the most effective and lasting work can be accomplished in dealing with the health problems that confront humanity. Therefore the assertion that the fourth international congress on school hygiene will be the most important health conference ever held in the United States will find few to contradict it.

The Importance Realized.

The congress is being conducted under the patronage of the president of the United States and is being supported by practically every civilized government in the universe, showing that at last we are coming to recognize the value of having a proper foundation upon which to build and support the health of the individuals who form or support the various governments.

For the period of time within the recollection of any one living at the present date the health of the armies and navies of the world has been presided over by the most effective corps of medical and health experts possible to secure. It is but recently, however, that the governments of the world have begun to learn that those who are to be their future citizens should receive the same care and consideration that is given the armies and navies.

The health of the school child is, indeed, far more important to the nation than that of its fighting men—in the next generation at least.

Many governments, like our own, make it compulsory for children within certain age limits to attend school, but until the recent past little thought or consideration was given to the conditions which surround the public school children of the country from the health standpoint, except that which was exerted by the boards of education in the different communities.

Tuberculosis In Schools.

It is only when such startling reports as the following from the Michigan state board of health become current that the governments, municipal, state and national, become active in dealing with these problems:

"In making a study of the occupational relation to tuberculosis one cannot help being impressed by the frequent occurrence of tuberculosis among

EUGENIC MARRIAGE FAILS.

Husband Accuses Bride and Companion of Kicking Him Out.

"Eugenic marriages are a failure," according to Edwin Ferron of Lynn, Mass., the first eugenic husband in Massachusetts, who nursed a badly bruised face while he denounced his assailant and his wife. Ferron was married about a month ago, both parties producing physicians' certificates as to their fitness to marry.

Perron told the police that he returned home to find his house in darkness. He said that when he entered his room a strange man who was with his wife leaped at him and hit him, knocking him downstairs. His wife and the stranger fled, according to Perron.

Perron said he and his wife had quarreled frequently.

"I thing eugenic marriages are a failure," reiterated the eugenic husband to the police.

PREPARE FOR NEW FLOOD.

Natives of Panama Are Building an Ark, Imitating Noah.

Word lately arrived in Panama from Penonome, a town in the interior of the republic, that Segundo Sanchez, a native of that section, has proclaimed himself the Messiah.

He has predicted the destruction of the world by a deluge in a short time, and some of his eighty adherents are engaged in building an ark, while others are busy collecting in pairs animals of all species found in their region.

His followers also have armed themselves, and in view of this fact the Panama government is taking steps to avert possible trouble by them.

Conference Takes Place Aug. 25-30, Under Patronage of President Wilson.

schoolteachers. A careful study of the following table will give a very comprehensive idea of the situation:

"Over a period of years 52.4 per cent of the deaths among schoolteachers between the ages of twenty-five and thirty-four were due to tuberculosis, while only 25.8 per cent of the deaths among all persons in Michigan between the ages of twenty-five and thirty-four were due to this disease. Among schoolteachers of all ages 27.6 per cent of the deaths were due to tuberculosis, while among all persons of all ages only 9.4 per cent were due to this disease.

"This is a matter which should engage the active attention not only of teachers, but of the patrons of the public schools. It would appear from our data that the conditions under which public school teachers labor are conducive to tuberculosis. This is, in a great many instances, an easily established fact. Now, this ought not to be. The schoolteacher, who should be considered as the most valuable factor in the establishment of an efficient citizenship, should not be required to work under conditions which are relatively more conducive to the occurrence of tuberculosis than other professions.

Precautions Necessary.

"Extreme precautions should be observed by school commissioners and boards of education to prevent teachers who are affected with tuberculosis from continuing in the service. This should be done in the interest of the teacher and in the interest of the pupils. The solution of the situation, however, should not rest simply with the attempt to prevent infected teachers from being employed. The school officials and the patrons of our public schools should be united in an effort to remedy the existing conditions, that the public schoolroom can in no sense be considered as a place in which one's health is subjected to unfavorable conditions. A more active interest in considering the principles of proper construction, warming, ventilating and lighting of school buildings will go a great way toward remedying this situation."

Mouth Hygiene Instruction.

The above is one of the strongest pleas for teaching mouth hygiene that has been published by the health department of any state in the Union. The writer has also contended that the public schoolteachers of the country are not paid salaries which are commensurate with the obligations that are placed upon them in the fulfillment of their duties.

If practically three times as many schoolteachers are dying from tuberculosis in this country as are people in other walks of life, because of the conditions which surround the teachers, what must be the effect produced upon the schoolteachers of this country by the various other germs which are just as readily transferred from individual to individual as are the germs which produce tuberculosis? And what must be the influence upon our boys and girls who are compelled by the various governments to attend school from six to twelve years under the same conditions and surrounded by the same influences that surround the teaching profession?

VENISON MAY REPLACE BEEF.

Possibility of Using Reindeer In Alaska Is Being Investigated.

It may be that the purchase of a reindeer steak or roast will be possible not very long hence in almost any meat market in the United States and that venison, now reserved for the wealthy, will be within the reach of every family.

Reindeer are multiplying so rapidly on government lands in Alaska that T. N. Conway, manager in the northwest for Armour & Co., has gone to Alaska to investigate the possibility of shipping the meat to the United States. Before going Mr. Conway said the suggestion of using the reindeer as a food supply was made by government representatives to J. Ogden Armour. Mr. Armour believed that, with the existing transportation facilities, it would not be possible to sell the meat at retail in eastern cities for less than 75 cents a pound. He referred the question to Mr. Conway, however.

Mr. Conway is investigating along the arctic circle and along the shores of the Bering sea north of Nome, where the herds are increasing very rapidly. It is his opinion that reindeer, caribou and other animals thriving in the great open regions of northern Alaska and Canada will become an important factor in America's meat supply as soon as railways have been extended farther into that territory.

Appointed Ten Policewomen.

Mayor Harrison of Chicago has appointed ten policewomen in accordance with a recent order passed by the city council.

The policewomen will be assigned to duty at public bathing beaches and dance halls. Their uniforms have not yet been decided upon.

Hot Times.

There's Mexico a-quarreling,
With factions full of fight,
And several revolutions
Of divers kinds in sight.
There's Portugal with crisis
Already most acute
And China, just established,
Prepared to follow suit.

There are the restless Balkans
In turmoil all the time,
With Turkey getting ready
For new career in crime.
There's England torn to pieces
With threatening civil war
O'er home rule's fate in Ireland
And suffragettes' big jar.

There's congress with the tariff
And Mulhall with his tale;
There's strikes of all descriptions,
And riots right in jail.
No wonder that the prophets
Their aim, they missed it not,
In saying that this summer
Was apt to be some hot.

BRITISH MINER'S FEATS OF MEMORY WONDERFUL.

His Strange Faculty Compared With Performances of the Past.

A Northumberland (England) quarry miner, George Harbottle by name, has been the subject of many tests lately, and he has been proved to be in possession of a memory which retains an indelible impression of everything he hears or reads.

He can repeat half a dozen pages of a book without the omission or misplacing of a single word after he has once heard or read them. He is also able to repeat long lists of words backward or forward after they have been read out to him. For a wagger recently he read once through a whole pamphlet of street songs, a task that occupied twenty minutes, and then repeated the whole from beginning to end without a mistake.

His gift, though now regarded as wonderful, would have been regarded as an ordinary accomplishment in olden times, when men were accustomed to train and exercise their powers and gifts of memory. This was particularly the case with the priests of the different religious systems, as in the majority of instances the contents of the sacred books were not permitted to be committed in writing.

Thus the Vedas, the Talmud and other sacred writings were preserved mainly by committing them to memory. Apart from these, however, there are many authenticated cases on record of people in all classes and positions—kings, statesmen, soldiers, artists and others—who had remarkably trained natural powers of memory.

"Justus Lipsius, a Flemish writer of great celebrity in his time (the eleventh century), knew by heart the whole of Tacitus. About the same time a French poet of the name of Nicholas Bourbon astonished the Parisians by reciting accurately the French history of Chancellor de Thou and the eulogies of Pius II. Giovanni," says the Standard. "Avicenna, the famous Arabian physician who lived in the eleventh century, could repeat word for word the whole of Aristotle's 'Metaphysics' and also knew in common with many Moslems the whole of the Koran by heart."

"George Vogan de Arrezzo knew by heart line after line the whole of Vergil's 'Aeneid,' which he had learned when at school. Klopstock, the celebrated German epic poet, is said also to have known the whole of Homer's 'Iliad,' which he had memorized in his school days.

"Before the days of shorthand writing Memory Woodfall used to attend the house of commons and after listening to a debate could reproduce the whole without taking a single note, a power also possessed by William Radcliffe, the husband of Mrs. Radcliffe, the novelist.

WHEAT OUTLOOK PROMISING.

Yield Probably Will Be Greater Than Big Harvest of 1912.

Prosperity is indicated by the wheat crop prospect. The present outlook for the total yield of spring and winter grain is that the nation will produce as much as it did last year, when the aggregate was estimated at 730,000,000 bushels.

Winter wheat, according to the latest government report, indicates a total of 488,000,000 bushels compared with 400,000,000 bushels last year. Iowa is sending flattering reports of the winter wheat yield. Thrashing machine returns in many instances are from forty to fifty bushels an acre. The average yield for that state, it is now estimated by the state weekly crop bulletin, is about thirty bushels an acre.

Compilations on the government report issued some time ago show that the spring wheat yield probably will be 248,000,000 bushels instead of 218,000,000 bushels, as was suggested immediately after the report became public. If these later estimates be correct the total production of wheat in the country will be slightly more than that of 1912, or approximately 731,000,000 bushels.

Nearly $1,000,000 to University.

Nearly a million dollars is left to Milliken university by Mrs. Anna B. Milliken, widow of James Milliken, founder of the institution, whose will has just been made public at Decatur, Ill. The large Milliken mansion will be converted into an art museum, and a corporation may be founded to carry on the educational and charitable projects for which Mrs. Milliken provided by turning over all her property.

WOMAN INFERIOR SINCE BEGINNING

So Says Professor Frederick Starr of Chicago University.

MAN OF TODAY STAGNANT.

Noted Anthropologist Points Out That No Member of Fair Sex Was Ever Great Musician, Painter or Scientist. Dr. Cornelia B. Debey, Prominent Woman Physician, Makes Reply.

"Woman has been an inferior creature ever since the human race was developed, and she must always remain so. The presence of large numbers of women in occupations hitherto monopolized by man is unnatural and indicates racial decline or at least racial stagnation. This is an unprogressive age, and on this ground alone can be explained the relative success of woman in competition with man."

That is the opinion just voiced by Professor Frederick Starr, who holds the chair of anthropology in the university of Chicago.

Continuing, the educator said: "The race is at a standstill. We are not making progress in really important fields. We are inventing automobiles and aeroplanes, it is true, and are worshippers of machinery and system.

"But that does not count for the true advancement of civilization. Man is stagnant. The male has dropped out of the struggle and until he enters it again we shall make no serious advance.

Unequal by Nature.

"Woman by nature is unequal to man in the development of those qualities which make for human progress. She never has distinguished herself by important discoveries in any line of science.

"As compared with man there never was a great woman painter, sculptor, musician, architect or scientist. She has never invented anything of benefit to the race.

"The elements of sex superiority were fixed back in the vegetable kingdom, and she cannot overcome them. She is conspicuous in affairs now only because she is playing an inevitable part in a great race experiment in which the activities of man have been temporarily abridged.

"As soon as man resumes his normal stride woman will drop back immediately to the natural position of inferiority which the female has held through all the centuries that life has existed in the earth."

Evolution Slow But Sure.

Dr. Cornelia B. Debey, a noted woman physician, upon being told of the professor's sentiments said:

"In a general way he is correct, but in one great particular he is wrong. Woman is evolving slowly and when she is of full stature she will be ready for larger action.

"Man to date has had abundant evidence of his own superiority, but the great issues of life, the human issues—the problems of existence and adjustment, the spiritual problems—will be solved by woman. The male still belongs to the crust of things.

"The great, large, 'eternal womanly,' as Goethe calls it, is the human species that will solve the great differences of humanity. The very slowness of woman's evolution gives promise of larger fulfillments. This gentleman has misread the scientific evidence. He has taken the superficial and left the profound.

"After all, the woman is the mother of the babe, and a baby is a greater poem than Shakespeare ever wrote, a greater creative evidence than man ever demonstrated."

American Exports Changing From Foodstuffs to Manufactures.

How the United States is changing from a great exporter in foodstuffs to manufactures is shown in every report issued nowadays by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce at Washington. The bureau's latest figures show a growth in exports of manufactures from $468,000,000 in 1903 to $1,200,000,000 in the fiscal year just closed and in manufacturers' materials from $409,000,000 to $740,000,000, while the exports of foodstuffs remained at a standstill, $510,000,000 having been the value of the exports in that line both in 1913 and in 1903.

Fresh beef exports have fallen from 225,000,000 pounds in 1903 to only 7,000,000 this last year; beef cattle from $30,000,000 a decade ago to $1,000,000 in 1913 and canned beef from 76,000,000 pounds to 7,000,000. On the other hand, iron and steel manufactures exported increased from $87,000,000 ten years ago to more than $300,000,000 this year and copper manufactures from $40,000,000 to $140,000,000. Machinery increased from $51,000,000 to $130,000,000.

Leaning Tower In Danger.

Dispatches from Pisa, Italy, say that arrangements have been made to strengthen the leaning tower, which is tipping more every year and is becoming dangerous. It has been decided to drain the foundations, into which water from the river Arno has penetrated. The base is to be widened and filled up to the level of the square.

MORE EVIDENCE IN SULZER CASE

Impeachment Talk Is Growing Stronger.

SPECULATIONS IN STOCKS

Testimony Before the New York State Legislative Committee Is Said to Have Left No Doubt in the Committee's Mind That Governor Sulzer's Transactions Have Been Such as to Base Impeachment Proceedings On.

New York, Aug. 9.—As the result of an astonishing series of blows at Gov. Sulzer's reputation, delivered before the Frawley legislative committee, the first impeachment of a governor that this state has ever known, seems inevitable.

Charges that fell just short of proof in earlier sessions—that the governor in addition to perjuring himself by swearing to an untruthful statement of campaign receipts, used part of these receipts in stock market speculation—were driven home by testimony deemed by the committee indisputable.

The committee found itself so stuffed with evidence that it adjourned without hearing all the witnesses who were expected. It will meet in Albany on Monday afternoon to consider the next step. On Monday night, when the extra session of the legislature is resumed, a report covering all that the investigation has found out up to this time will be submitted to both houses. No formal recommendation will accompany it, as Chairman Frawley believes that the committee is not so empowered.

There is, however, good reason to believe that the report itself will amount to a demand for impeachment and that after receiving it there will be nothing for the lower house to do but order that Governor Sulzer be put on trial before the court of impeachment, which consists of the senate and the court of appeals, sitting together.

Humiliating for the governor were disclosures that he, the self-confessed poor man and comrade of the poor, not only had such good financial standing that he was able to owe the firm of Harris & Fuller $56,987 on Jan. 1, when he was a representative in congress, but that he was a steady loser in the market, and after sharp and uncomplimentary dunning by the brokers the payment of his debt was completed by his business partner, ex-Governor A. E. Spriggs of Montana, who deposited $5,000 to the governor's account, and by Louis M. Josephthal, who came to the governor's rescue on July 19 of this year by closing the Sulzer account with a payment of $26,749. Mr. Josephthal, who is the head of a brokerage firm, was the only member of Governor Dix's staff who was appointed to the staff of Governor Sulzer.

Even more interesting for its bearing on the accusation that the governor used campaign contributions for private speculation or investment was the revelation of his account with Boyer, Griswold & Co. By the witness, Charles A. Reynolds, who was cashier of that now non-existent brokerage firm, it was brought out that on Oct. 16 Frederick L. Colwell, proved to have been the agent of Governor Sulzer in another transaction, bought 200 shares of Big Four stock for $12,025. It was paid for on the same day with eight checks and $7,125 in cash. One of those checks, for $100, was given to Mr. Sulzer specifically for campaign purposes, according to the testimony of Lyman A. Spaulding, the giver. It was a part of a sum that was raised for the candidate at a little contribution party at the Manhattan club early in October. Also into this account of Mr. Colwell with Griswold & Co., went other campaign checks aggregating $4,400. This was the first positive proof before the committee to support the charge that the governor diverted campaign money to his private operations.

In addition to playing the spotlight on the governor's transactions with Harris & Fuller and Griswold & Boyer, counsel convinced the committee that the mysterious "account No. 500" with Fuller & Gray was the account of Frederick L. Colwell, acting for William Sulzer.

FAVOR THE CURRENCY BILL

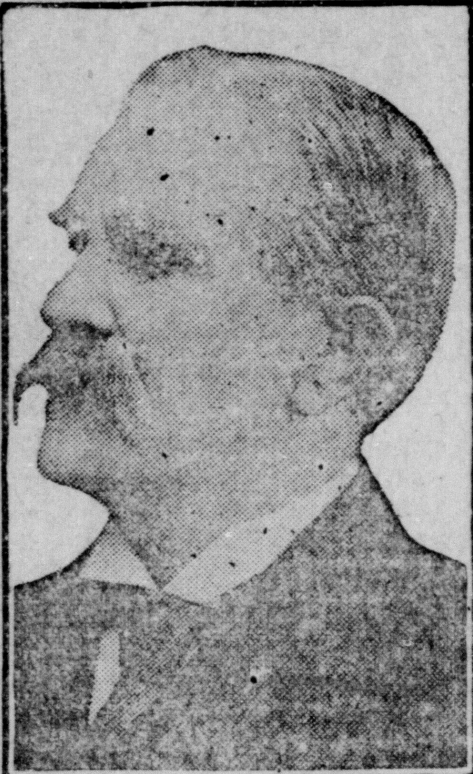

Bankers, However, Would Have Measure Modified Somewhat.

Washington, Aug. 9.—Developments at the conference which Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo held here with bankers from the middle west made it clear that they favor the passage of the administration currency bill at this session of congress provided alterations are effected in the provisions regarding the concentration of reserves. There are indications that the desired changes may be adopted by the senate committee on banking and currency.

A resolution was passed by the bankers favoring the immediate enactment of the currency measure providing the regulations as to reserves were more lenient. The bankers were agreed that the passage of the bill in its present form would threaten the country with an upsetting of business for the reason that no time would be given to the banks for preparing themselves for the radical changes in their reserve systems.

OBJECT OF DIAZ'S MISSION TO JAPAN

Treaty Will Give Japs Foothold In America.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 9.—Not to create a more friendly diplomatic feeling between his country and Japan, but for the purpose of signing a secret treaty giving Japan the long-sought foothold on the west coast of America, is the object of the mission to Japan of General Felix Diaz, the Mexican leader who has arrived here on his way to the Orient. A member of General Diaz's staff made this admission in conversation.

"Japan is playing for a foothold on the Pacific coast, and seeing the attitude of the United States, the attention of the oriental diplomats has been turned toward Mexico," said the member of the legation.

"Mexico, on the other hand, is in serious financial embarrassment, and secret concessions, including money with which to continue the war that is fast impoverishing the nation, will be forthcoming if no upsets are noted in the program.

"There seems to be a silent bond of sympathy between the Mexican and the Japanese races, and the Japanese are playing this to their best advantage. I know of one instance where a huge sum was offered the Madero administration for coast concessions that would have controlled wonderful power."

YEGGMEN FOILED AT LAST MINUTE

They Had Planned Big Jewelry Robbery.

DISCOVERY WAS ACCIDENTAL

Casual Trip of a South Bend Tailor to Cellar Under His Shop Revealed a Hole in Basement Wall Leading to the Adjoining Building in Which Is Located One of the Biggest Jewelry Stores in Indiana.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 9.—An attempt to rob the diamond and jewelry house of Frank Mayer & Sons, one of the largest in Indiana, was foiled by the discovery of a hole drilled into the basement wall of the jewelry house.

The discovery was accidental. A tailor employed by William Renfranz, located in an adjoining building, missed a box and in looking for it went into the basement. He found it pushed against the wall and when he moved it a hole large enough for a man to crawl through was revealed. The yeggmen had gained access to the tailoring establishment through a rear window.

The police believe the men had been working on the wall for at least a week. Investigation developed that for several mornings a horse and wagon had been driven through the nearby alley loaded with dirt and pieces of masonry. The robbery was planned, the police think, to be pulled off tonight after the store had been closed.

BOY TOWN IN OPERATION

Interesting Juvenile Experiment Conducted at Winona.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 9.—The Kappa Sigma Pi boys of the Modern Knights of St. Paul are holding their annual camp at Winona Lake. They will remain until Aug. 19, and on the evening of Aug. 16 will give an entertainment at the Winona auditorium, the event being a part of the regular chautauqua program. Herman Rodeheaver of Winona Lake, national organizer of the society, will direct the program. The camp is in charge of the Rev. D. H. Jamison, grand chaplain of the Kappa Sigma Pi. The youthful experimenters in self-government have elected a mayor, councilmen and other officers for a complete city government. Members are here from all parts of the United States, especially large delegations from Ohio.

APPROVE VOCATIONAL LAW

Bartholomew County Educators Make Plan For Training of Pupils.

Columbus, Ind., Aug. 9.—Bartholomew county schools are preparing to make the most of the new vocational training law. Several will install equipment this fall so that domestic science and manual training may be taught. Several teachers have been sent to Purdue university this summer to prepare for this special work in vocational training. In addition to the work to be done in the schools, the farmers of the county are making an effort to obtain a county agricultural agent. The Columbus Grange has appointed a committee of ten to raise $500, after which the Bartholomew county council will be requested to appropriate $1,500, and then the state will be asked to send an agent here.

Badly Hurt in Race Accident.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Aug. 9.—In a race at the fair grounds a horse driven by Frank Padgett of Athens, Ga., fell down and was run into by a horse driven by J. L. Grundy of Lebanon, Ky. Padgett was badly injured, his left leg, both collar bones and two ribs being broken. His left hip was also fractured and his right ear torn off. Grundy escaped with slight bruises.

Mill Destroyed by Lightning.

Princeton, Ind., Aug. 9.—The Zillak & Shafer flour mill at Haubstadt, eleven miles south of here, was burned. The mill contained a large supply of grain and several hundred barrels of flour. The loss is estimated at $75,000. Lightning, it is supposed, set fire to the building.

County Tuberculosis Hospital.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 9.—A hospital for the treatment of tuberculosis will be established by St. Joseph county north of South Bend at a cost of from $30,000 to $50,000. Condemnation proceedings have been filed to obtain the thirty acres of land necessary to the project.

What's To Be Gained?

The Mulhall investigation continues to grind its weary way along. Its "sensational" feature was Mulhall's tale that James E. Watson of Indiana, while in Congress, was on the N. A. M. payroll at $250 per week in an effort to secure the passage of the tariff commission bill, says the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Later Mulhall retracted his charges against ex-Representative Watson and said he "was mistaken."

As the investigation drags along the thinking and patriotic American must necessarily ask himself: "What is the use of it all?" Here is the former servant of a body of reputable business men, employed to go about the country in their interest. He loses his job, and after trying for a year to get it back, by methods which seem to savor much of blackmail, he frames a scandalous tale about his employers and employment for money and revenge.

His tale and his cart load of "letters" have so far revealed no proof of corruption of Congressmen by his former employers, through him or anybody. Much has been made of the financial help given by his former employers to Congressmen in their campaigns. Suppose these tales are true. What does it amount to? Take the Littlefield case for example.

Mr. Littlefield voted his convictions in a way which choused him to be denounced as "an enemy of labor." Samuel Gompers and his associates set out to defeat him. They sent speakers into his district and spent a lot of money for that purpose. The employers' union spent money to meet this attack.

What did the employers' union do that the labor unions didn't do? And what was the difference in moral turpitude, if it be wrong and base to spend your money to promote your political principles and elect the men who represent them, between the conduct of the employers' union and the labor union?

Here is an association of business men who are regarded as reputable in their own communities. They number some 3,800. These industries provide work and wages for 3,000,000 citizens. They pay annually in wages from $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 and the value of the annual product exceeds $4,000,000,000. They are an important part of the machinery of the "American opportunity."

The men who conduct these industries and whose abilities have made them successful exercise their right to go, or send agents, to Washington to speak with the lawmakers about their business affairs. They are confronted with organized efforts to obtain legislation detrimental to their right to manage their own business and their property rights. They organize to meet this assault. Money is spent by the other side, and they spend money on their side. There is no tangible evidence that it was spent corruptly. That is the whole case so far. That is all.

What is the use of trying to represent these men as criminals—as corrupters of the fountains of law? What is the use of trying to tear down men and institutions whose activities have helped to build up the country and promoted prosperity? If they have been guilty of any crime the courts of justice are open for their punishment. Let their accusers present their proofs. But what have they done but take their part in that discussion and agitation without which popular government cannot go on at all?

What can the Chicago Tribune and the New York World hope to gain by buying and exploiting the scandalous tale of a dismissed employee seeking revenge? What is the benefit of this tearing-down madness and what can be the end of it? There can be but one end of persistence in such a course. That is such destruction of public confidence in anybody's honesty or sincerity that social chaos will result. We are become the laughing stock of all nations for our continual fouling of our own nests and spitting in our own faces. Let us free our minds from cant and see things as they are.

thousand released convicts had come to these Hope Halls and that seventy-five per cent. of them had made good and were earnest, upright men today. Twenty per cent may have drifted, she said, and the other five per cent got back into prison.

"Of this five per cent," she continued, "just two words are written over their downfall, and they are strong drink. But I go after them again. They are given another chance just as often as they are released, and who is there to say that they shall not be given another chance?"

Mrs. Booth spoke of the remarkable difference between preaching from a pulpit to a congregation and preaching to convicts. In the one the preacher knows that the hearer applies the advice to his neighbor, but the prisoners takes it to himself. She declared it to be the most uplifting, sweet and enjoyable undertaking.

Mrs. Booth said any released convict was received in Hope Hall, regardless of religion or belief. There is but one pre-requisite, she asserted, and that is the candidate must have done at least one "turn" in prison. She said they were not paraded on the platform, although attempts had been made to induce her to do so, because they should not be made as notorious in reforms as they were in their former life. She declared that the veil must be drawn over the grewsome things and they must be made to forget the past.

Mrs. Booth told of Rainbow Home, a farm which she established in New York state for prison children. She recalled a three-year-old prison-born boy which was entrusted to her care and who aroused the idea of a home for prison children because there was no place she could leave him. She said when he first was established in the home, he would run for great distances, and would return and never utter a word. The superintendents could not account for it at first. Finally they discovered that in this way he gave vent to his feelings. He had been shut between walls all his life and did not know what the freedom of outdoors was. He was exploring to see if there were any walls.

"I have seen the same indelible mark on the older boys," she continued. "They come out cringing and marked for life. It is our work to try and efface their minds and from their lives all memory of the past, that they may go out in the world and make good."

Mrs. Booth said that there were very few women in state prisons. In the New York state prisons there are four thousand men and a hundred and fifty women. She said she did not know the reason unless the women are better or because the men are on the juries. She said the best success had been obtained by placing released women convicts in domestic service.

Mrs. Booth told a pathetic story of a young French girl who was, by honied words, had been induced to come to America with a man. She was taken to the tenderloin district of New York and the man lived off her earnings. Finally she was cast into the street, and if she did not bring home enough money in the evening, she was beat by the man who had married her. One day, driven to despair, she purchased a revolver and shot her husband. She was indicted for first degree murder and given the minimum sentence, five years.

It was then that she came into the life of Mrs. Booth who learned her story. Before her time had been served out, Mrs. Booth procured a pardon for her and she was sent to a country home where she became a most excellent, lovable woman and found a man who really loved and finally married her. She described the many efforts that were made to reach the girl that money might be made off her past history. Mrs. Booth was successful in avoiding all adventures.

"It disgusted me," commented Mrs.

Booth, to see the impression people have of convicts. They think only of the sheekles that may be realized. But they need a new heart that they may face the world all over again."

"But people say convicts feel they have done an injustice," said Mrs. Booth later. They point out that convicts criticize the judge and jury and that I am unholding them. But men should not break law with impunity. They should suffer. It's the felon who has never been detected that is a greater curse because he is at large in our communities. The convict comes out, having learned his lesson and ready to face the world anew."

Mrs. Booth said she had been told that the law should be upheld, and she agreed, but that there were many instances where the law has done injustices.

She found in one state that a man had been sentenced for 999 years for committing murder and in another instance that man had been sentenced by a jury instead of the judge. She said the person who passed sentence on a prisoner should be most learned in the law and that this was a gross miscarriage of justice.

She told the story of Jimmie, age thirteen years, who was sentenced to prison in Texas for shooting his brutal drunken father after his father had beaten him terribly. She pointed out that the boy was not taken to juvenile court and sent to a reform school, but that he was taken into a court, charged with first-degree murder, and sentenced to prison along with all guilty men.

Mrs. Booth met him when he was thirty-five years of age and chanced to hear his story. Although it was out of her line of work, she recited the story to the Governor and implored his forgiveness. The pardon was granted with the promise that Mrs. Booth should watch over him.

She also brought about the pardon of an old negro who had been sentenced to the same prison for sixty years for second-degree murder. Each Emancipation day, she said, "Old Sixty," as he came to be known because of his term, expected to get a pardon, but it never came. She said "Old Sixty" was the most grateful man she ever saw when he obtained his unconditional release.

NAME MENTIONED IN HOUSE INQUIRY

EMPLOYED BY SPECIAL BODY

James Emery, counsel for the N. A. M. confirmed Col. Mulhall's testimony that former Representative James E. Watson was employed to work for the passage of a tariff commission bill after Watson left Congress in 1909. But Emery, testifying before the Senate lobby committee yesterday, stated that it was the tariff commission association and not N. A. M. that hired Watson. Emery admitted, however, that the tariff commission association was formed at the instance of the N. A. M.

"Do you know that Watson received $500 checks, drawn on the N. A. M.?" asked Senator Walsh, who insisted that Watson actually lobbied for the N. A. M.

"No, I do not," answered Emery.

The witness admitted that Watson frequently wrote letters in the N. A. M. office, but denied that Watson made Emery's office his headquarters, as Mulhall alleged.

RACERS COLLIDE WITH VEHICLES

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver McGraw of Falmouth Have Narrow Escape South of Connersville.

ARRESTS MAY BE MADE YET

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver McGraw, of Falmouth, were the victims of an unusual accident, recently, says the Connersville News. They were going to the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGraw, south of the city, and while passing the Elmhurst grounds two vehicles approached at rapid speed. Mr. McGraw saw that they were racing and tried to give them the road, but as they swept alongside, one of their buggies struck his horse.

The driver was thrown headlong into the McGraw buggy, striking the occupants. Mr. McGraw's horse was knocked off its feet and fell in a heap. The man who arrived so suddenly in the McGraw buggy jumped from the rig, untangled his horse from the wreck and whipped for the city at breakneck speed. Mr. and Mrs. McGraw recognized the driver and his arrest will probably come about.

RICHMOND WOMAN RECOVERS WATCH

Case on Which Local Police Worked is Settled at Shelbyville When Gives up "Ticker."

WOMAN IS EMPLOYED HERE.

Mrs. Minnie Roberts of Richmond, who has been working in a local restaurant, succeeded in locating a gold watch in Shelbyville last Wednesday night, which she had failed to do in this city last week. The watch was in the possession of Jack Norton, who was here with a carnival last week.

Mrs. Roberts complained to the Shelbyville police of the alleged theft. The Shelbyville chief of police found Norton, got the watch and him loose when Mrs. Roberts did not remain at a meeting place as agreed. A policeman on the Shelbyville force arrested Norton, but the mix-up was straightened up when it was found the chief of police had the "ticker" and it was returned to Mrs. Roberts. She complained to the Rushville police last week that Norton had her watch. The police found Norton and he denied that he had it. Mrs. Roberts refused to file an affidavit against Norton and the police dropped the case.

Roaring Wags.

The Red Lion club was composed of great Englishmen, and Huxley was one of the members. The club used to meet during the session of the British association. To a certain meeting at Ipswich, England, which Huxley described in his "Letters," some foreigners were invited, the Prince of Canino, Bonaparte's nephew, among them, and greatly astonished they were at the exceedingly human behavior of the learned professors. The Red Lion men had a custom of roaring instead of cheering and of wagging one coat-tail the lion's tail—when applauding. The prince was much impressed by these proceedings, and when he stood up to respond to the toast of his health instead of making a speech he gave three mighty roars and three wags.

Brevity in Legislation.

Old time Scotchmen realized that brevity is the soul of legislation. For instance, King James I.'s parliament passed an act which said simply: "No man shall enter any place where there is hay with a candle unless it be in a lantern." This is probably the shortest statute ever passed. In fact, one small volume is enough to hold more than two centuries of Scotch legislation.

SPENT 23 YEARS IN AFRICAN WILDS

Black Men Are Splendid Race, Says Missionary.

WOMEN ARE SUFFRAGETTES.

More Advanced in Every Way Than the Men, Says Scotchman, Returning to America—Cannibalism Rarely Practiced, and Never by the Women. Opposed to Conversion.

Daniel Crawford, a Scotchman, who lost himself in the heart of Africa for twenty-three years and who recently produced a book called "Thinking Black," arrived in New York a few days ago. The missionary author is a short man with sandy hair, beard and mustache. He has sharp flashing eyes and a manner of speaking rapidly and with great emphasis.

"For twenty-three years," said Mr. Crawford on his arrival. "I never wore a collar, never saw a train of cars and hardly ever spoke to a white man. I really felt more negro than white man. A quarter of a century ago I was a young man, and I was dying of consumption. I heard that the climate of Africa would be good for my trouble, and I went there as a missionary. I struck into the heart of the country alone and lived by my rifle."

Blacks a Magnificent Race.

"I found the black men in Africa a magnificent race," Mr. Crawford continued. "I settled among the Luban tribes. There are about a million of these people. They speak a wonderful language, which it took me years to learn. There are twenty-three tenses of the verb and the noun has nineteen genders. I translated the Bible into the Luban language and also wrote a grammar, which, incomplete though it is, gives a pretty good idea of the tongue."

"Did you find any of these peoples cannibals?" Mr. Crawford was asked. "Very few," he replied, "and it may interest you to know that there is no such thing as a female cannibal. Although the men may eat human flesh the women of the same tribe never do. The women are further advanced than the men and they band together to protect themselves from 'man the monster.' Yes, the movement for equal suffrage is probably stronger in Central Africa than anywhere in the world."

Advised Against Conversion.

"And were you able to convert these people to Christianity?" "The tribesmen with whom I made my residence were ready to profess Christianity, but I dissuaded them from it. They would have been but nominal Christians, and I feared that a change of faith would result in their destruction. Unless you have seen them as they are you can have but a faint conception of these black men in their natural state. The 'civilized' blacks have picked up all your vices and few of your virtues. But the negro under natural conditions possesses a culture of his own. He has a definite and delightful code of etiquette."

Mr. Crawford said that after his visit to this country was over he would return to Africa to live again among the people with whom he has chosen to spend the greater part of his life.

LESS AMERICANS TO CANADA.

Report Shows Decrease of Such Immigration to Dominion.

Immigration figures for the first three months of the fiscal year just issued at Ottawa, Ont., show an increase of British and European immigrants over the same period last year and a heavy decrease in immigration from the United States.

American settlers entering Canada during the first quarter this year numbered 44,998, as against 53,343 in the same period last year. Total arrivals were 210,206, as against 175,346 in the same period last year. Of these 84,305 came from Great Britain, an increase of 15,000. The government estimates that the American settlers brought with them in cash and effects upward of $67,000,000.

SHINS RUE SLIT TROUSERS.

First Man to Wear Them Is Kicked by Newsboys.

A martyr to fashion, W. Leffingwell Doak, a member of the north side gentility of Pittsburgh, was mobbed by a gang of newsboys in that city. Doak was the first wearer of the prophesied slit trousers.

When the boys saw the innovation they gathered about Doak, voicing uncompromising criticisms. Finally they began to jostle him and kick him in the shins. At sight of a policeman they scattered.

Doak's trousers were of a light check material. The slit extended from the bottom outside to about six inches from the knee. Bright green hosiery of the length women wear were disclosed.

COUNCILMEN HERE TO LOOK OVER PLANT

Maysville, Ky., Officials Make Flying Trip to Rushville to Get Some Pointers.

IT IS KEPT A DARK SECRET

Newcastle was visited Thursday by three members of the city council of Maysville, Ky., who are making a flying trip by automobile to various towns and cities in Ohio and Indiana in search of information and pointers regarding municipal lightning plants, says the Newcastle Courier. The party came here from Rushville, spent a few hours at the local plant on West Broad street and left in the afternoon for Dayton, O. Maysville is up against the proposition of rebuilding its lightning plant and the three councilmen, who are members of the committee in charge of the street lighting of that city, desire to inform themselves as to the best equipment and the most economical way of handling it.

The party included Col T. A. Keith and son John D. in whose car the trip is being made, Sherman Arn and Andrew Slooney.

MAY HAVE SURPRISE FOR THE CHAUTAUQUA

Secretary J. H. Scholl Looks up Bills Today so That it May be Possible to Estimate Balance.

FINANCIAL SUCCESS IN 1913

There may be a nice little surprise in store for the patrons of the Rush county chautauqua tomorrow, the closing day. It is known that the chautauqua has been a success financially this year because of the excellent attendance and the very favorable weather. Secretary J. H. Scholl today was busy looking up bills against the association so that it would be possible tomorrow to estimate just what the financial standing of the chautauqua would be at the close this year. For this reason it may be possible the secretary will be able to make a very pleasing announcement.

The gate receipts from single admissions this year up to last night were $1,124.05. The season ticket sale netted $1861.35, making a total of $2,985.40. Yesterday was the second largest day of the week, excluding Sunday. The receipts yesterday were $187.60 and Wednesday, $530. The gate receipts the first Sunday were $197.05.

Secretary of Agriculture Houston Thinks Training For Work is What is Needed.

WHAT STATES HAVE DONE

High School Represent 80 Per Cent. of Agencies Teaching Agriculture Today.

United States secretary of agriculture Houston believes that the teaching of agriculture in the public schools will eventually solve the problem as to how the sons of farmers may be persuaded to remain on the farms. Investigations recently made by the department of agriculture show that marked progress in this direction is already being made. Sixteen years ago agriculture was not being taught in a single public school in the United States. Today the subject is being taught in more than two thousand public high schools.

This rapid growth of facilities for teaching agriculture has not extended over the whole of this sixteen-year period, but has been more marked in the last four years and most rapid in the last two years. Four years ago the agricultural education service in the offices of experiment stations listed less than three hundred and fifty institutions as teaching agriculture; two years ago, less than nine hundred; now, about two thousand six hundred.

And while sixteen years ago, or even ten years ago, the public high schools were hardly thought of as effective agencies for the education of the rural people along vocational lines, at the present time, they constitute more than 80 per cent. of the agencies engaged in teaching agriculture, not including, of course, the one-teacher elementary schools, which have never been listed by the department.

There are several types of secondary schools in which agriculture is taught. First in order of establishment and in value of agricultural equipment are the agricultural schools connected with state agricultural colleges, as in Minnesota and thirty-six other states. These schools use the land, live stock, farm equipment and laboratories of the agricultural colleges, and their classes are largely taught by professors and instructors in the agricultural colleges.

Secondly, there are the separate agricultural schools, which include county schools, like those in Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, North Carolina and Wisconsin; congressional district schools, as in Alabama and Georgia; judicial district schools, as in Oklahoma, and schools serving larger districts, sometimes a whole state, as in Arkansas, California, Colorado, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New York, Pennsylvania and Vermont. These schools have been established primarily for the purpose of teaching agriculture. The third type of school is the public high school in which a department of agriculture has been established or a teacher of agriculture employed, or an agricultural course conducted by a science teaching with some agricultural training.

Eleven states have appropriated funds to encourage the teaching of agriculture in existing public high schools, and one or two others have granted subsidies for conducting teachers' training courses in which agriculture is one of the subjects of instruction. Virginia was first of the eleven states to make a specific appropriation for the teaching of agriculture in public high schools.

In 1908 the Virginia assembly appropriated $20,000 to enable the state board of education to begin courses in agriculture, home economics and manual training in at least one public high school in each of the ten congressional districts of the state, and in 1912 increased the appropriation to $65,000, including $25,090 to aid the schools in providing buildings and equipment, and $10,000 for extension work to be conducted by them. There is nothing in the legislation to indicate how much money each school shall receive, because the number of schools to be aided, and hence the amount available for each, is not stipulated, this whole matter being left to the discretion of the state board of education. At the present time, however, ten schools, one in each congressional district, are dividing the funds equally.

REX BEACH ADVENTURE STORIES

The Shyness of Shorty

By REX BEACH

Copyright by Rex Beach

PROLOGUE.

As a teller of adventure tales Rex Beach is without an equal in America. Years of experience as a miner in Alaska made him familiar with a little known quarter of the globe where life flows at full tide; consequently his stories are not only intensely interesting, but they are absolutely true to nature. Most of his characters are real people, changed somewhat to suit the motives of the particular story in which they appear. He has been in many an Alaskan gold rush and has had many narrow escapes. One of the stories in this series describes a frightful experience in a blizzard in an Alaskan pass. Beach participated in a trip of this very character and barely escaped being frozen to death. One of the Indians who accompanied him died of exposure. Beach made his first great hit with "The Spoilers," a remarkably interesting tale of life near the arctic circle, and this was followed by "The Barrier" and "The Silver Horde." His Adventure Stories are varied in character and full of thrilling incidents and humorous episodes. In appearance he resembles a college football player, being six feet two inches tall and weighing 200 pounds.

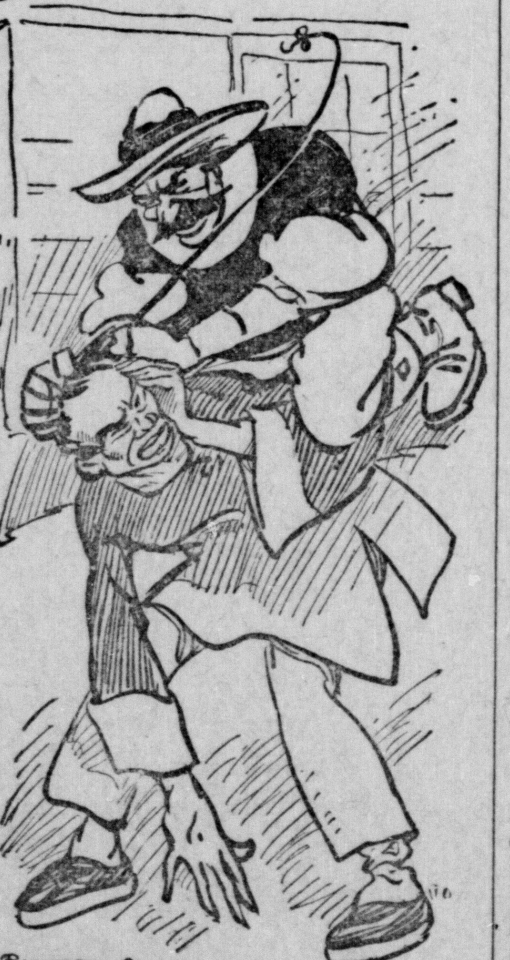

BAILEY smoked morosely as he scanned the dusty trail leading down across the "bottom" and away over the dry, gray prairie, toward the hazy mountains in the west.

He called gruffly into the silence of the house, and his speech held the surliness of his attitude:

"Hot Joy! Bar X outfit coming. Git supper."

A Chinaman appeared in the door and gazed at the six mule team descending the distant gully to the ford. "Jesse one man, hey? All right," and he slid quietly back to the kitchen.

Whatever might be said, or, rather, whatever might be suspected, of Bailey's roadhouse—for people did not run to wordy conjecture in this country—it was known that it boasted a good cook, and this atoned for a catalogue of shortcomings. So it waxed popular among the hands of the big cattle ranges near by. Those given to idle talk held that Bailey acted strangely at times, and rumor painted occasional black doings at the

He Seemed to Bounce Galvanically, Landing on Joy's Back.

hacienda, squatting vulture-like above the ford, but it was nobody's business, and he kept a good cook.

Bailey did not recall the face that greeted him from above the three span as they swung in front of his corral, but the brand on their flanks was the Bar X, so he nodded with as near an approach to hospitality as he permitted.

It was a large face, strong featured and rugged, balanced on wide, square shoulders, yet some oddness of posture held the gaze of the other till the stranger clambered over the wheel to the ground. Then Bailey removed his brier and heaved tempestuously in the throes of great and silent mirth. It was a dwarf. The head of a Titan, the body of a whisky barrel, rolling ludicrously on the tiny limbs of a bug, presented so startling a sight that even Hot Joy, appearing around the corner, cackled shrilly. His laughter rose to a shriek of dismay, however, as the little man made at him with the rush and roar of a cannon ball. In Bailey's amazed eyes he seemed to bounce galvanically, landing on Joy's back with such vicious suddenness that the breath fled from him in a squawk of terror. Then, seizing his cue, he kicked and belabored the prostrate celestial in feverish silence. He desisted and rolled across the porch to Bailey. Staring truculently up at the landlord, he spoke for the first time.

"Was I right in supposing that something amused ye?"

"No, sir; I reckon you're mistaken. I ain't observed anything frivolous yet."

"Glad of it," said the little man. "I don't like a feller to hog a joke all by himself. Some of the Bar X boys took to absorbing humor out of my shape when I first went to work, but they're sort of educated out of it now. I got an eye from one and a finger off of another. The last one donated a ear."

Bailey readily conceived this man as a bad antagonist, for the heavy corded neck had split buttons from the blue shirt, and he glimpsed a chest hairy and round as a drum, while the brown arms showed knotty and hardened.

"Let's liquor," he said and led the way into the big, low room serving as bar, dining and living room. From the rear came vicious clatterings and slammings of pots, mingled with oriental lamentations, indicating an aching body rather than a chastened spirit.

"Don't see ye often," he continued, with a touch of implied curiosity.

"No, the old man don't lemme get away much. He knows that dwelling close to the ground, as I do, I pine for spiritual elevation," with a melting glance at the bottles behind the bar, doing much to explain the size of his first drink.

"Like it, do ye?" questioned Bailey, indicating the shelf.

"Well, not exactly. Booze is like air—I need it. It makes a new man out of me and usually ends by getting both me and the new one laid off."

"Didn't hear nothing of the wedding over at Los Huecos, did ye?"

"No. Whose wedding?"

"Ross Turney, the new sheriff."

"Ye don't say! Him that's been elected on purpose to round up the Tremper gang, hey? Who's his antagonist?"

"Old man Miller's gal. He's celebrating his election by getting spliced. I been expecting of 'em across this way tonight, but I guess they took the Black Butte trail. Ye heard what he said, didn't ye? Claims that inside of ninety days he'll rid the county of the Tremper and give the reward to his wife for a bridal present. Five thousand dollars on 'em, ye know." Bailey grinned evilly and continued: "Say, Marsh Tremper 'll ride up to his house some night and make him eat his own gun in front of his bride, see if he don't. Then there'll be cause for an inquest and an election." He spoke with what struck the teamster as unnecessary heat.

"Dunno," said the other. "Turney's a brash young feller, I hear, but he's game. Tain't any of my business, though, and I don't want none of his contrab." I'm violently addicted to peace and quiet, I am. Guess I'll unhitch."

As the saddened Joy lit candles in the front room there came the rattle of wheels without, and a buckboard stopped in the bar of light from the door. Bailey's anxiety was replaced by a mask of listless surprise as the voice of Ross Turney called to him: "Hello, there, Bailey! Are we in time for supper? If not, I'll start an insurrection with that Boxer of yours. He's got to turn out the snoringest supper of the season tonight. It isn't every day your shack is honored by a bride. Mr. Bailey, this is my wife, since 10 o'clock a. m." He introduced a blushing, happy girl, evidently in the grasp of many emotions. "We'll stay all night, I guess."

"Sure," said Bailey. "I'll show ye a room," and he led them up beneath the low roof where an unusual cleanliness betrayed the industry of Joy.

The two men returned and drank to the bride, Turney with the reckless lightness that distinguished him, Bailey sullen and watchful.

"Got another outfit here, haven't you?" questioned the bridegroom. "Who is it?"

Before answer could be made, from the kitchen arose a tortured howl and the smashing of dishes, mingled with stormy rumblings. The door burst inward, and an agonized Joy fled, flapping out into the night, while behind him rolled the caricature from Bar X.

"I just stopped for a drink of water," boomed the dwarf, then paused at the twitching face of the sheriff.

He swelled ominously, like a great pigeon, purple and congested with rage. Strutting to the newcomer, he glared insolently up into his smiling face.

"What are ye laughing at, ye shavetail?" His hands were clinched till his arms showed tense and rigid, and the cords in his neck were thickly swollen.

"Lemme in on it! I'm strong on humor. What in h—! ails ye?" he yelled, in a fury, as the tall young man gazed fixedly, and the glasses rattled at the bellow from the barreled-up lungs.

"I'm not laughing at you," said the sheriff.

"Oh, ain't ye?" mocked the man of peace. "Well, take care that ye don't, ye big wart, or I'll trample them new clothes and browse around on some of your features. I'll take ye apart till ye look like cut feed. Guess ye don't know who I am, do ye? I'm—"

"Who is this man, Ross?" came the anxious voice of the bride, descending the stairs.

The little man spun like a dancer and, spying the girl, blushed to the color of a prickly pear, then stammered painfully, while the sweat stood out under the labor of his discomfort:

"Just 'Shorty,' miss," he finally quavered. "Plain 'Shorty' of the Bar X—er—a miserable, crawling worm for disturbing of ye." He rolled his eyes helplessly at Bailey while he sopped with his crumpled sombrero at the glistening perspiration.

"Why didn't ye tell me?" he whispered ferociously at the host, and the volume of his query carried to Joy hiding out in the night.

"Mr. Shorty," said the sheriff gravely, "let me introduce my wife, Mrs. Turney."

To be continued.

TREATY OF PEACE IS NOT LIKELY TO HOLD

Revision Necessary to Balkan Tranquility.

London, Aug. 9.—The treaty of peace concluded at Bucharest, the Times' Balkan correspondent says, completely ignores the essential features of the distribution of the various Balkan races in Macedonia and consequently is devoid of all elements of permanence. Bulgaria, surrounded by five enemies and reduced to desperation, was, the correspondent says, compelled to assent to their demands, and these arrangements cannot be regarded as final. A revision of the treaty of Bucharest, he adds, is obviously necessary in the interest not only of justice, but of Balkan tranquility and European peace.

It Made Him Despondent.

WORLD DISPLAY AGAINST HUERTA

Wilson Expects the Co-operation of the Powers.

WILLING TO LEND SUPPORT

It is intimated in Washington that already the State Department has received assurances from European Nations of their sympathy in the present effort to secure mediation of Mexico's standing quarrel.

Washington, Aug. 9.—The state department is counting on the support of the active co-operation of the powers of the world in bringing about the success of John Lind's peaceful mission to Mexico. This explains why Washington officials are practically ignoring the present defiant attitude of President Huerta and have instructed the president's special agent to continue his journey to Mexico City. It accounts for the spirit of optimism which the president and his advisers have shown in the face of most discouraging developments from Mexico City.

It was learned that as soon as President Wilson's proposals for a peaceful solution of the Mexican situation have been laid before Huerta they will be transmitted to the great nations of the world. The president and his cabinet are relying on the expression then of a world-wide opinion to compel Huerta to make concessions in the interest of order and constitutional government. It would not be surprising if the United States government had already received informal assurances from European nations of their sympathy and willingness to lend support in the present effort toward mediation.

Instead of taking offense at the defiant note from the Mexican government declaring the presence of John Lind in that country "undesirable," the administration is endeavoring to appease the anger aroused in Mexico City by President Wilson's policy. Representations are in progress through the American embassy which have for their purpose the smoothing away of what is characterized as "misunderstanding" on the part of the Mexican government. Secretary Bryan has made public this answer to the note of defiance which has been received by this government from President Huerta: "The statement of the Mexican foreign office was based on misrepresentations for which this government is not responsible. In sending Governor Lind as adviser to the embassy the president is entirely within his rights and this department will not assume that his going will be regarded as unfriendly when the character of his mission is understood."

The battleship New Hampshire, which is conveying Mr. Lind to Vera Cruz is expected to reach that port this afternoon. Lind probably will reach Mexico City Sunday. The president hopes through the proposals carried by Lind to bring about the suspension of hostilities in Mexico, an agreement from Huerta that he will not be a candidate for election to the presidency and finally the holding of an election in the near future in the understanding that the United States will recognize the government thus created. Administration officials still are confident of the ultimate success of this plan and that Huerta will see things in a different light. Washington had been considerably puzzled over this hopefulness on the part of the president and his advisers until it became known that they are counting very materially on the support of the other great nations of the world. Just how this support will be brought about, especially from nations that already have recognized the Huerta government, has not been made known.

Hunter Shot From Ambush. Washington, Ind., Aug. 9.—Henry Myers, twenty-four years old, son of a well-to-do Martin county farmer, was arrested, charged with having killed the body of A. T. Rastrouff of Haverhill, Mass., with shot. Rastrouff had been on the east fork of White river for several weeks hunting pearls, and when preparing to leave was shot from ambush and while unconscious robbed of his belongings. He is in a critical condition.

Caucus Will Be Secret. Washington, Aug. 9.—The Democratic caucus to be held on Monday to consider the administration banking and currency bill will be secret.

MEXICANS IN ACTION.

Zapatista Insurrectos In Battle With Federals In The Northern Mountains.

© 1913, by American Press Association.

This is the kind of warfare that is being carried on just across the border of the United States. Many bullets from the rifles of both sides of the fray fall on American soil and sometimes hit American citizens. It is to keep the belligerents on their own ground that Uncle Sam is maintaining a small army along the Mexican boundary.

JAPS IN NO HURRY TO PUSH TREATY RIGHTS

They Will Wait for Favorable Opportunity.

Tokio, Aug. 9.—It is learned from an authoritative source that Japan does not contemplate making a test case as soon as the California land act becomes operative. Its intention is rather to wait for an occasion such as may be provided by probate proceedings in the event of the death of a Japanese land owner or the dissolution of a Japanese company in California, when the act can be disputed on the basis of treaty rights solely. There is no intention to appeal to The Hague or to lodge a request at Washington for the granting of naturalization rights to Japanese, although negotiations may be begun for a new agreement with the Washington authorities. It is not expected here that there will be any demonstration of popular feeling on Sept. 10, when the act goes into operation. The belief in Japan that an indignity has been suffered by the nation is widely held, but the responsible section of the people evidently realize that the road ahead is long and arduous. There is considerable disappointment in official circles at the action of the United States senate in blocking the arbitration treaty.

Flew From New York to Washington. Washington, Aug. 9.—C. Marvin Wood, flying a monoplane, broke the no-stop record for a distance run, according to his own claim. The official record heretofore held by Lieutenant Milling, U. S. A., and made within the year in Texas, was 224 miles without stopping the engine. Wood figures he covered 287 miles on his run from New York to Washington.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

The three years' enlistment bill has passed the French senate. It will add 210,000 men to the army.

An earthquake destroyed the Peruvian towns of Caraveli and Quicacha. Thousands of inhabitants were made homeless.

Thomas J. Cogan of Cincinnati was elected president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles at the national meeting in Baltimore.

The threatened strike of 1,000 trainmen of the Chicago & Western Indiana railroad and the Chicago Belt railway has been averted.

The strike at Milan, which involves 150,000 workers, has degenerated into a struggle between the forces of law and order and the dregs of the populace.

The situation in Barcelona, where 90,000 workers are on strike and 337 factories are closed, is regarded in Spanish government circles as very grave.

One hundred and thirty-two fire insurance companies, which recently withdrew from Missouri because of a new state law, will take risks there again.

Thomas H. Cannon of Chicago was chosen high chief ranger of the Catholic Order of Foresters at the order's twenty-first international convention, held at Louisville.

Major William W. Harts, engineer corps, United States army, and the holder of a degree from Princeton, will be the president's aid, succeeding Major Spencer Cosby.

When Fireman Jim Flynn had been knocked down four times in the fifth round of their New York fight, Gunboat Smith of California was declared the winner by a knockout.

of his solos. The tenor with the club has sung for the Victor company.

A large crowd was attracted to the chautauqua this afternoon by the club and Harry A. Adrian, the Luther Burbank man. He is the official representative of the wizzard of the plant kingdom and come directly from Burbank with a message of untold value to the people.

Following a prelude of forty-five minutes this evening, Dr. E. O. Guerrant, the missionary of the southern mountains, will speak. He will have to unfold a tale of thrilling interest to the audience. His message will be similar to those which Maude Ballington Booth and John E. Gunkle have brought to chautauqua audiences this week.

Dr. Guerrant has something definite to tell the people. His life has been rich with tragic and dramatic experiences. He speaks of facts, not of fancies. He is not a muckraker, but an uplifter. His life has been one of devotion to a cause and he has a real message to deliver. Dr.
Guerrant has initiated a work among the ignorant mountaineers of the south which will cause his name to go down in history, and he has something stable and solid to leave with
the people of the city and county.
Dr. Guerrant will also speak briefly
Sunday afternoon following the lecture by Bishop Quayle.

The Kellogg-Haines Singing Party
last night gave as a first part the tower scene from "II Trovatore" and some selections from the old favorite light opera, Dolly Varden. Each appearance was in special costume
which added greatly to the popularity of the acts.

The opening baritone solo in the tower scene by Mr. Goldberg was loudly applauded as was the next duet by Miss Fahlen, soprano, and Mr. Eichenberger, tenor. This number was allowed the full expression of their voices and exhibited their quality to a remarkable degree. Lovers of this grand opera were especially delighted that this duet should be included as it is the most melodious
one and at the same time expresses the pathos and emotion that runs through the music of the opera.

The acting of the singing party in the first part was the equal of their singing. The emotional qualities of Mr. Eichenberger and Miss Montague's voices elicited much favorable comment.

Between the two numbers, W. J.
Breach, the pianist, gave four readings which were very popular with the audience. He first gave "My Rose," by Ruth McHenry Stewart, playing his own accompaniment on the piano. The audience applauded until he had responded with another and another and another. Mr. Breach was remembered for his readings
here last year.

The splendor of the costumes in the Dolly Varden numbers aroused a lot of applause. The second part was opened with a baritone solo by Mr. Goldberg and was followed by a duet by Goldberg and Miss Montague.
Then followed two quartet numbers,
in which the lead was sung by Miss Fahlen. In the next quartet the melodious voice of Miss Montague had the leading part. The second part was closed with the most popular number in the tuneful light opera.

Yesterday afternoon in the prelude
the Kellogg-Haines company sang
"The Chinese Love Song," a popular,
tuneful air, in appropriate costume.
"The Owl and the Pussy Cat," a humorous number, was very much appreciated. The contralto solo, "For This" called for an encore.

ALL HERE BUT QUAYLE.

When the Lotus glee club arrived
here at 1:42 o'clock this afternoon
over the I. & C. traction line, all of the talent for the chautauqua had arrived, with the exception of Bishop W. A. Quayle, who will lecture twice tomorrow. He will arrive at nine o'clock in the morning. The glee club came from West Virginia and had to make some sacrifices in order to get here.

MILLER REUNION.

The fourteenth annual reunion of the Miller family will be held Tuesday, August 19 at the city park.

PROTEST GAME OF LAST WEDNESDAY

Christians Allege That Players Were Ineligible and Ask That Game
be Thrown Out.

OFFICERS WILL TAKE ACTION

The Christian Sunday School
league team through the captain and manager has filed a protest with the officers of the league against the game Wednesday, claiming that the Methodist team used men that were not eligible under the rules. They ask that the game be thrown out of the standing and that it be ordered to be played over. The Christians allege that Carr and Trader of the Methodist team were neither one eligible to play. It is also stated that the Methodists played George Punt-enney of the Presbyterian team when they had a catch of their own team available. The rule states that one team can borrow a player from another team only when it is impossible to place a team in the field. The protest states that the Methodists could have used their regular catcher. The officers will act on the protest in a few days and will hear the evidence in the case.

WELL NOT IN OPERATION

City Water Free From Gas This Afternoon.

The water well in South Julian
street near the Pinnell-Tompkins
factory was not in operation this afternoon which in a way explains the absence of gas and the peculiar taste
to the city water. For some time past
the city water in the business district
has been full of gas coming from the old gas well which is near the water well. The well was shut off this afternoon—it is not known why—and the water was free from gas. The well is one of the best the city has and has been the one best bet in the way of a water supply. The depression around the old gas well has at last been filled by Street Commissioner Kelley.
